

General case studies

This session provides an opportunity for participants to present contributions on landslide related topics, issues, problems and ideas that are not directly suited to the specific sessions offered at the Symposium. The general idea is to encourage individuals to consider submissions in this session that may be multi-disciplinary in nature, or theoretical in nature, address topics of interest to the general public or may otherwise not be specifically applicable to the other focussed sessions.